Message

The Asian-African Legal Consultative Organization (AALCO) - since its inception in 1956, as a tangible outcome of the historic Bandung Conference of 1955 - has contributed significantly in forging Asian-African cooperation on international legal matters. For the last 60 years, the Bandung Spirit has continued to remain a source of inspiration for the Member-States of AALCO, in their quest for creating an egalitarian and just international legal order.

AALCO is a forum for consultation on matters of common concerns to its Member States, and also acts as an advisory body, providing assistance to its Member States in matters of international law in the light of their particular interests. With the full support and guidance of the Member States, AALCO has constantly revitalized and improvised its activities so as to meet the aspirations of its Member States, as well as the present day challenges in the field of international law.

In this regard, I am privileged to present this Information Brochure which provides a bird's eye view of the Organization's growth, its work program, and its service to the Member States since its establishment.

(Kennedy Gastorn)

GENERAL INFORMATION

Historical Background

The Asian-African Legal Consultative Organization (AALCO) started its journey as the Asian Legal Consultative Committee (ALCC), which was formed on the 15 November, 1956, as a tangible outcome of the historic Bandung Conference, held in Indonesia, in April 1955. The ALCC was constituted by the Governments of Burma (now Myanmar), Ceylon (now Sri Lanka), India, Indonesia, Iraq, Japan and United Arab Republic (now Arab Republic of Egypt and Syria). It was a body of legal experts, advisory in nature, established to deal with problems pertaining to international law that were referred to it by its Member

Bandung Conference in action

States, and further to help in exchange of views and information on matters of international law, which were of common concern to the participating countries. Later, in 1958, the statutes of the ALCC were amended so as to include the participation of African nations, and consequently its name changed to Asian-African Legal Consultative Committee (AALCC).

The AALCC was originally established as a non-permanent committee for a term of five years. This term was, however, further extended on four occasions until 1981, when at its Colombo Session; it was decided to place the Committee on a permanent footing. That decision necessitated revision of the original Statutes and Statutory Rules - the revised versions of which were adopted in 1987 and 1989 respectively. Owing to the growing stature and status of the Committee - at its 40th Session, held at its Headquarters in New Delhi, in 2001 - the name of the Committee was changed to Asian-African Legal Consultative Organization (AALCO).

Silver Jubilee Celebrations of 1955 Bandung Conference and the 21st Session of AALCO (Jakarta, 1980)

In order to keep the constituent instruments of the Organization in tune with the changing times and to meet the new hopes and aspirations of its Members, the Member States of AALCO, at the 43rd Sessions of the Organization at Bali, Indonesia in 2004, accorded their unanimous approval to a new and revised Text of Statutes. The new Text of Statutes is in consonance with the constituent instruments of other inter-governmental Organizations and brings it at par with them. The Statutory Rules of the Organization are also in the process of being revised.

Functions and Purposes

The Functions and Purposes of the Organization are as follows:

- To serve as an advisory body to its Member States in the field of international law and as a forum for Asian-African cooperation in legal matters of common concern;
- To consider and deliberate on issues related to international law that may be referred to the Organization by the Member States and to make such recommendations to the governments as may be deemed necessary;
- To exchange views, experiences and information on matters of common concern having legal implications and to make recommendations thereto if deemed necessary;
- To communicate with the consent of the governments of the Member States, the views of the Organization on the matters of international law referred to it; to the United Nations and other institutions and international organizations;
- To examine subjects which are under consideration of the International Law Commission and to forward the views of the Organization to the Commission; and to consider the reports of the Commission and to make recommendations regarding them, wherever necessary, to the Member States; and
- To undertake, with the consent of/ or at the request of Member States, such activities as may be deemed appropriate for the fulfillment of the functions and purposes of the Organization.

There are three ways in which a matter is placed on the Work Programme of AALCO:

- Reference by a Member State
- Suo-motu initiative of the Secretary -General
- Through follow-up of the work of the International Law Commission

In order to fulfill the objectives and carry out the functions of the Organization as set out above – the Secretariat prepares studies on topics which are of relevance to the Member States and are referred to the Secretariat by them, and which may appear also on the agenda for the Annual Sessions. These studies assist Member States in dealing with matters concerning international law, and some of them form the background material for deliberations at the Annual Sessions. The Member States after the deliberations at the Annual Sessions adopt resolutions, which set out the directions for the Secretariat to implement the work programme agreed upon by the Member States.

Current Work Programme

The AALCO since its inception has worked on a wide range of international law topics, including: law of diplomatic relations, extradition law, treatment of foreign nationals, State Immunity and commercial transactions, the law of the sea, Indian Ocean as a zone of peace, dual citizenship, ionosphere sovereignty, divorce laws, free legal aid, ILC's continuing agenda items, legality of nuclear tests, conflict of laws in international sales, double tax avoidance, law of treaties, Afro-Asian view of the UN Charter, Vienna Conventions of diplomatic and consular relations, Convention on Civil Liability for Nuclear Damage, law of outer space, principles of peaceful coexistence, law of international rivers, South West Africa cases, uniform transport law, legal advisory services in foreign offices, environmental law, territorial asylum, succession of States in respect of treaties, reciprocal assistance in respect of economic offences, issues of international trade law, regional cooperation and New International Economic Order, legal framework for joint ventures in industrial sector, mutual assistance in criminal matters and debt relief.

The current work-programme of the Organization includes the following topics:

- Work of the International Law Commission
- The Law of the Sea
- The Environment and Sustainable Development
- Expressions of Folklore and its International Protection
- The Status and Treatment of Refugees
- Violations of International Law in Palestine and Other Occupied Territories by Israel and Other International Legal Issues related to the Question of Palestine
- Legal Protection of Migrant Workers
- Extraterritorial Application of National Legislation: Sanctions Imposed Against Third Parties
- Violent Extremism and Terrorism (Legal Aspects)
- Establishing Cooperation Against Trafficking in Women and Children
- The International Criminal Court: Recent Developments

- International Law in Cyberspace
- The Work of UNCITRAL and Other International Organizations in the Field of International Trade Law
- The WTO as a Framework Agreement and Code of Conduct for World Trade
- Managing Global Financial Crises: Sharing of Experience
- Human Rights in Islam

Membership

Forty-six countries from Asia and Africa are presently the Members of the Organization. Membership of the Organization is open to all Asian and African States that desire to participate in the Organization in accordance with its Statutes and Statutory Rules. Any such State desirous of membership has to address a written communication to the Secretary-General of the AALCO intimating its desire to participate in the Organization and stating its acceptance of the Statutes and Statutory Rules. The communication when received is circulated among the Member Governments with a request for submission of their comments for the same within a period of six weeks. Unless at least one-third Member States object to such membership, the State concerned is declared admitted as a member.

Permanent Headquarters

Pursuant to the Headquarters Agreement between the Government of India and AALCO, signed on 26 April 2000 - New Delhi is the seat of the Permanent Headquarters of AALCO. The Government of India has gifted a complex building in the diplomatic enclave in Chanakyapuri for AALCO's Headquarter building and the residence of the Secretary-General. The Secretariat started functioning in this building from April, 2008.

Signing ceremony of Headquarters Agreement, New Delhi 2000. Mr. Tang Chengyuan, the then Secretary-General of AALCO and Dr. P. S. Rao, the then Legal Adviser and Joint Secretary, Ministry of External Affairs, Govt. of India

Finances

The Organization's finances are met from three sources, namely:

- (i) The annual budget, contributions for which come from all Member States;
- (ii) Voluntary contributions, which may be made by any Member State/s including contribution in the form of deputation of officers; and
- (iii) Special budget for specific purposes such as for the Arabic Fund.

All members are committed to contribute towards the annual budget. The share of each Member's contribution is decided on the basis of an agreed scale as per the economic situation of each Member State. The Member States from Arabic speaking countries also make an additional contribution towards the Arabic budget, which goes towards translation of official documents into Arabic and for interpretation purposes during the Annual Session. All other contributions are on a voluntary basis.

ORGANIZATIONAL STRUCTURE

Annual Sessions

The Annual Session of AALCO is its plenary organ, and also the highest decision making body. The resolutions adopted during the Annual Sessions by the Member States on the organizational and substantive matters steer its work programme. The Annual Session also decides and elects the Secretary-General of the Organization.

The Annual Sessions are usually hosted by one of the AALCO Member States, on the basis as far as possible by geographical rotation. High-level representatives are appointed by the Governments of Member States to attend these Annual Sessions. In addition, many observer delegations representing non-Member States and international organizations also participate in the deliberations. 55th Annual Session held in New Delhi (HQ), India in 2016

Over the years it has become a regular practice that members of International Law Commission (ILC) actively participate in the Annual Sessions.

Meetings of the Liaison Officers

Member States nominate officers who are usually diplomats at their diplomatic missions in New Delhi, preferably with legal experience, to act as Liaison Officers with AALCO. Liaison Officers represent their governments during the intervals between Annual Sessions - in the meetings that are usually held once every two months at the AALCO Headquarters in New Delhi.

Secretariat

The Secretariat of the AALCO is responsible for the day-to-day functioning of the Organization. This includes preparation of technical studies and documentation, providing advisory services to the Governments of the Member States, organization of training programs and seminars and maintaining the necessary cooperation with regional and international organizations.

The Secretariat is headed by the Secretary-General appointed by the Member states. He is assisted by Deputy Secretaries-General seconded by the Member Governments. Presently, the Governments of the People's Republic of China, Islamic Republic of Iran and Japan have deputed their Senior Officials to serve the Secretariat. The rest of the Secretariat staff consists of legal officers and other administrative and supporting personnel.

The Organization also maintains permanent observer mission to United Nations both at New York and Vienna.

Secretary- General

The Secretary-General of the Organization is elected by the Member States on a rotational basis, from the two regions of Asia and Africa, for a renewable term of four years. Anyone who is a national of a Member State and is a legal expert or has adequate legal and administrative experience may be appointed as the Secretary-General. The person so appointed may be re-elected for a maximum further term of four years. The Secretary- General is the Chief Executive of the Organization and pilots the Organization in all correspondence, decisions, and programmes adopted by the Annual Sessions. The Secretary -General presents a review of the organization's work on a biennial basis to the United Nations General Assembly, and forwards the views and opinions of its Member States to the International Law Commission, on matters under its consideration. An important part of his work is also to promote cooperation with the United Nations, its specialized agencies and other intergovernmental Organizations.

The current Secretary-General is Professor Dr. Kennedy Gastorn from the United Republic of Tanzania. He took office on 15th August, 2016.

His predecessors, namely, Mr. B. Sen, Mr. Frank X. Njenga, Mr. Tang Chengyuan , Amb. Dr. Wafik Zaher Kamil and Prof. Dr. Rahmat Mohamad had made their valuable contributions towards the Organization.

Centre for Research and Training

The Centre for Research and Training (CRT), earlier known as the Data Collection Unit, was established by AALCO in 1989 to collect and collate information on international economic and trade instruments, as well as the relevant legislations of the Member States. Over time its activities have been expanded to cover the entire gamut of the substantive activities of AALCO, including research and dissemination of information on topics of contemporary relevance.

In addition, the Centre is presently engaged in:

- a) Organizing training programmes for legal persons dealing with international law of the Member States
- b) Capacity-building by carrying out research projects on international law
- c) Convening workshops and seminars, and arranging discussions and lectures by international law experts from within and outside the AALCO region

The Centre maintains and regularly updates the website of AALCO (both in English and Arabic). The website of AALCO is a window to its activities, and helps build a stronger link between itself, its Member States, the United Nations and other international organizations.

Regional Arbitration Centers

One of the major achievements of AALCO in its programme pertaining to the economic field was the launching of its Integrated Scheme for Settlement of Disputes in the Economic and Commercial Transactions in 1978. Pursuant to that Scheme, it was decided to establish Regional Arbitration Centers under the auspices of AALCO, with the objectives to promote and conduct international commercial arbitration in the Asian-African regions.

Five such Centers have been established so far, which are located at Cairo (Arab Republic of Egypt), Kuala Lumpur (Malaysia), Lagos (Nigeria), Tehran (Islamic Republic of Iran) and Nairobi (Kenya). The respective Host Governments recognize the Centers' independent status and have accorded to them privileges and immunities. Each Centre is headed by a Director, appointed by the Host Government in consultation with the Secretary-General of AALCO. The Directors of the Centers present their reports on the functioning of the Centers at the Annual Sessions.

AALCO provides its expertise and assistance to the Member States in the appointment of the arbitrators, and in other matters related to the conduct of arbitration. These Centers also provide training to arbitrators.

Inter-sessional Meetings

In addition to the Annual Sessions, inter-sessional Meetings constitute an important part of AALCO's activities. In accordance with the approved work-programme of the Organization, the Secretary-General convenes inter-sessional meetings, meetings of expert groups and may also arrange for informal consultations - during the intervening period between two Annual Sessions, to consider any subject or issue, pending approval, over which consultations among the Member Governments may be deemed necessary.

Meetings of AALCO Legal Advisers

Every year a meeting of the Legal Advisers of the Member States of AALCO, regarding matters pertaining to AALCO, is convened in New York, during the time of the General Assembly Session. Legal Advisers of non-Member States and representatives of United Nations and its Agencies also attend this Meeting. The meeting provides a forum for exchange of views on current issues of common concern to the Member States. Subsequently, the Secretary-General receives informal guidance from the Legal Advisers regarding the various assignments to be carried out by the Secretariat. Since 2003, an AALCO-ILC Joint Meeting takes place along with the Legal Advisers Meeting.

Seminars

the existing literature on the subject.

AALCO-ICRC seminar on International Humanitarian Law

Under the auspices of the CRT seminars on the topics of contemporary relevance in international law are regularly convened. AALCO has jointly organized numerous seminars and workshops. To name a few of them:

- Workshop on Selected Items before the International Law Commission
- Legal Experts meeting on the Law of the Sea
- Workshop on International Humanitarian

Law

The Centre later publishes the report of such Seminars, which certainly are a valuable addition to

Training Programs

Training programs on various international law topics is conducted by the CRT in cooperation with inter-governmental organizations and academic institutions, for the officials of Member Governments, at regular intervals. From 2008 onwards, the CRT has initiated a Training Course on "General International Law" for diplomats and officials of the Member States. Further in 2010, a training on the Humanitarian Law, a basic course on World Trade Organization, and a regional training on the Treaty Law and Practice were conducted.

PUBLICATIONS

AALCO, being also a legal research Organization, attaches great importance to its publications. It has constantly endeavored to enhance the content and quality of its publications. The Secretariat brings out important publications regularly, namely the Yearbook of the Asian-African Legal Consultative Organization and the AALCO Journal of international Law.

The Secretariat also prepares the Reports and Verbatim Records of the Annual Sessions, Legal Advisers' and Liaison Officers' Meetings, seminars and other meetings convened under its auspices from time to time. The Secretariat also regularly brings out Special Studies on topics of contemporary relevance in international law under the auspices of CRT.

Cooperation with other International Organizations

The scope of AALCO's activities has been broadened from time to time to keep pace with the needs and requirements of its Member Governments and an increasingly globalizing world. This has been especially so in the fields of international trade and economic law matters, international humanitarian law, international refugee law, international environmental law etc. The AALCO, as the only organization of its kind at an intergovernmental level, embracing the two continents of Asia and Africa, has also oriented its activities to complement the work of the United Nations in several areas. In the light of the Organization's growing status and functions, the General Assembly by a Resolution, adopted at its thirty-fifth Session in 1980 decided to accord AALCO Permanent Observer Status at the United Nations. Following that, an item on "Cooperation between the United Nations and the Asian-African Legal Consultative Organization" is placed biennially on the agenda of the General Assembly.

The Organization has also established close relations with the United Nations specialized agencies and some intergovernmental organizations, and has concluded formal cooperation agreements / Memorandum of Understanding with 21 of them. These agreements provide for mutual consultation, exchange of documentation, and the right to representation at each other's meetings. They facilitate joint organization
